

Call for Applications:

Mobility Grant for Norwegian Language, Literature and Culture, 2023-2024

Norwegian Directorate for Higher Education and Skills (Hk-dir) calls for applications for mobility grant for the academic year 2023-2024.

The mobility grant is awarded Master and Ph.D. students in countries outside Norway and at institutions with a department for Nordic/Scandinavian studies, whom have chosen Norwegian language, literature or culture as topic for their dissertation. The grant must be used for fieldwork in Norway in connection with the dissertation.

We ask the institutions to inform their students about the opportunity.

The mobility grant is awarded for one, two or three months. The fieldwork must be conducted at a Norwegian higher educational/research institution, and the applicant must provide details of a tutor at this institution who has agreed to tutor the student during his/her stay in Norway. The grant is given as a contribution to covering expenses in connection with the research stay in Norway.

The grant is given to board and lodging, in addition to travel:

Grant for board and lodging:

- The grant follows the rates set by The Norwegian State Educational Loan Fund for basic support and is NOK 11,800 per month.

Travel grant to/from Norway:

- NOK 3,000 for travel from countries in Europe.
- NOK 4,500 for travel from St. Petersburg and Moscow in Russia.
- NOK 6,000 for travel from other cities in Russia, other Eurasia countries and countries outside of Europe.

Application procedure and deadlines

1. Read the guidelines for the grant.
2. Prepare at project description and contact a tutor and an institution of higher learning in Norway.
3. Fill out the online application form in “Espresso”.
4. Obligatory attachments:
 - a. a recommendation letter from the home institution tutor,
 - b. a personal invitation letter from the Norwegian institution.

Submit the application before the deadline: March 20th, 2022.

The applications will be assessed by the Programme Committee for Norwegian Studies Abroad. All applicants will be informed about the outcome of their application in early May.
